

Mustang & The Paper Girl

An American Trucking Love Story

A CHRISTOPHER HENSEL FILM FROM JEB STUART PRODUCTIONS

TRUCKERS! THE BACKBONE OF THE USA!

Mustang & The Paper Girl

LOGLINE:

The Wilson's, a prominent wealthy family business, manufactures and distributes paper bulk products. They have a great reputation in town and have several families that they employ. They never started their own trucking arm of the company because Mr. Wilson's best friend (Cliff Carson) owned and operated his own successful trucking company which he built from the ground up one truck at a time.

After Mr. Carson dies in a tragic car accident, the family is devastated. After the funeral the renegade son (Trent) makes a move against his younger brother and sister to take over the business against his mother's wishes by forcing them out with the help of his thug buddies. He immediately starts to run the company into the ground through his degenerate gambling and womanizing ways. In short time his high climbing debt and declining business antics begin to take their toll on the family business. He decides he can make more money quickly by squeezing his father's long-time family friends business by doubling and tripling their trucking rates. This has a huge effect on the Wilson's bottom line. The Wilson's are stunned by these turn of events.

Trent goes after the oldest daughter (Jennifer) with his eyes on their company too. He follows her and intimidates her and tries to force himself on her one evening after a girls night out. A drunken Trent surprises Jennifer as he pops up at her car in the parking lot and ends up knocking her down and bruising her face. She escapes by kicking him in the knee and takes off.

The situation with the company is out of control. The stress on her father is compounded as his friends trucks are being sabotaged, hijacked, destroyed and run off the road. These are all wearing heavily on Mr. Wilson and he eventually tries to stop Trent by himself but almost gets killed one night in his own warehouse while investigating some noises and movement. The family has only 2 days to left to make a huge delivery consisting of seven trucks to one of its biggest clients else they will be forced to buy their paper goods from another competitor and their business will most likely not recover.

The family is ready to give up when an old flame of Jennifer's, (Just back from active duty), pops up with his ragtag but experienced war veteran buddies. They come to the rescue and try to save the family business. Truck chases and other acts of retaliation come into play as we watch Mustang and his friends pull off the 48 hour trucking delivery deadline as they send Trent and his cronies running out of town.

The first movie of this series will be shot on location in Texas, New Mexico, or Your Town USA this YEAR with an Anticipated release in early 2021. Our vision is to provide the opportunity for investors who want to play a huge role in American Trucking Films produced in the USA.

Come and join our team to ensure more films can be produced locally.

The Executive Summary and Business Plan are available upon request.

